Welcome to the 2007 Biennial International Conference of the IUS. This event marks the 47th year since our founding by Morris Janowitz. It is the largest conference in IUS history, both in number of attendees and research reported (over 50 panels and 200 papers). Most important, the scholarship presented here is of exceptionally high quality and deals with the most important issues of military professionalism and relations between the military and society.

At our banquet on Friday evening, we will present the Morris Janowitz Career Achievement Award to two distinguished Fellows, David R. Segal and Moshe Lissak. They join previous Janowitz Award recipients, Sam C. Sarkesian and Charles C. Moskos. Our keynote speaker will be noted author Thomas E. Ricks, senior military correspondent of The Washington Post.

In addition to our regular panels, there are roundtables on professional military education and the scholarship of Moshe Lissak. A number of cadets and midshipmen from the United States Military, Naval, Coast Guard and Air Force Academies and the Royal Military College of Canada join us for the conference, and some are assisting in the registration and other areas as well. I know you will enjoy meeting these future leaders of their nations’ armed forces, and encouraging them in their scholarly interests.

This is an excellent time to renew old acquaintances, make new ones, and, if you are not yet a Fellow of the IUS, to join us. Please encourage both established and rising scholars to become Fellows and to submit their best work to Armed Forces & Society, the premier journal in our field.

I thank you for your participation in our conference and for your support of our organization generally. IUS Fellows form an interdisciplinary college of scholars dedicated to the highest standards of social science research on issues of the armed forces and society. Please let us know at the Secretariat (secretariat@iusafs.org) or contact me personally (jwillia@luc.edu) if we can be of professional assistance to you. Meanwhile, I look forward to seeing you at the conference sessions and at the President’s Reception Saturday evening.

2007 MORRIS JANOWITZ CAREER ACHIEVEMENT AWARDS

MOSHE LISSAK

Moshe Lissak is one of the most renowned scholars of civil-military relations. He is Professor Emeritus of the Department of Sociology and Anthropology at Hebrew University in Jerusalem. He received his Ph.D. from the Hebrew University in 1963 and traveled to the United States to study with Morris Janowitz. In addition to Lissak’s critically acclaimed expertise on Burma and Thailand, he also became a distinguished scholar of Israeli civil-military relations and Israeli sociological history.

Moshe’s books include Military Roles In Modernization: Civil-Military Relations In Thailand and Burma; and Trouble in Utopia: The Overburdened Polity of Israel.

Moshe has been an important participant in the Inter-University Seminar on Armed Forces and Society, and a contributor to and associate editor of Armed Forces & Society. Moshe Lissak truly captures what it means to be the ideal intellectual of civil-military relations with his groundbreaking work in the field and profound engagement in theoretical and sociological debate and dialogue.

DAVID R. SEGAL

David R. Segal is the co-recipient of this year’s Morris Janowitz Career Achievement Award. He is a preeminent sociologist, directly influencing defense policy in the U.S. through research, consultation, and service work. His over 150 scholarly journal articles, the highly regarded book Recruiting for Uncle Sam, and the cogent America’s Military Population monograph, (co-authored with Mady Weschler Segal) are widely read.

His unparalleled ability to render complex sociological issues intelligible to lay, international, and other non-academic audiences has made him a widely sought-after mass media commentator and public speaker in the United States and abroad. He is considered an exemplary collaborator, as he was in the co-edited volume The Postmodern Military, because the rigor of his work makes for cutting-edge and frequently referenced sources.

Finally, Dr. Segal continues to educate, inspire, and mentor generations of students, teachers and practitioners—civilian and military—thereby leaving a lasting legacy regarding matters of the military.
Thomas Ricks has covered the U.S. military for the Washington Post since 2000. Until the end of 1999, he had the same beat at the Wall Street Journal, where he was a reporter for 17 years.

He has reported on U.S. military activities in Somalia, Haiti, Korea, Bosnia, Kosovo, Macedonia, Kuwait, Turkey, Afghanistan and Iraq. His major articles have looked at the changed nature of peacekeeping (1992), the growing importance of nonlethal weapons (1993), the revolution in military affairs (1994), the passage of one recruit platoon through Marine boot camp (1995), the cultural battle at West Point's leadership department (1997), the U.S. military's new emphasis on operating in Asia (2000), target clearance problems in the Afghan war (2001), the high morale of U.S. troops in Afghanistan (2002), the discrepancy between how a U.S. patrol in Baghdad saw itself and how Iraqis saw it (2003), and the growing strain on the military families and on the National Guard (2004).

He was part of a Wall Street Journal team that won the Pulitzer Prize for national reporting in 2000 for a series of articles on how the U.S. military might change to meet the new demands of the 21st century. This is posted at http://www.pulitzer.org/year/2000/national-reporting/works.

Ricks also was part of a Washington Post team that won the 2002 Pulitzer Prize for reporting about the beginning of the U.S. counteroffensive against terrorism. Those articles are posted at http://www.pulitzer.org/year/2002/national-reporting/works/. Many of his articles on Iraq are compiled on-line at http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-srv/liveonline/partners/frontline.htm.

He is the author of Fiasco: The American Military Adventure in Iraq, which was a No. 1 New York Times bestseller after being published in July 2006. He also wrote Making the Corps, recently revised, which won the Washington Monthly's "Political Book of the Year" award. He also has written on defense matters for the Atlantic Monthly and other publications. His first novel, A Soldier's Duty, about the U.S. military intervening in Afghanistan, was published by Random House in June 2001 -- some four months before the U.S. actually did intervene there.

Born in Massachusetts in 1955, he grew up in New York and Afghanistan, and graduated from Yale in 1977. He now lives in Silver Spring, Maryland, with his wife and children. For recreation, he enjoys whitewater kayaking, downhill skiing and reading military history.

The Officers of the IUS and the Conference Committee particularly wish to thank our Program Chair and Committee member, Sandra Carson Stanley. She coordinates this event’s arrangements long before the Conference takes place and throughout its three days. There are no words to express the depth of our gratitude to her for her invaluable contributions to this and so many prior IUS conferences. Dr. Stanley has our great respect and appreciation.

The Officers of the IUS and
Mary Frances R. Lebamoff
Ryan J. Burch          James W. Schuler          Adina Sigartau

The 2007 IUS Conference Committee expresses their most sincere gratitude to this year’s Conference Staff. We depend on our on-site volunteers for Registration, panel area hosting, as aides, and for many other details and support.

We appreciate all you do to make this Conference a success!
